

PAOLO MACINI – University of Bologna

Paolo Macini is Professor at the University of Bologna. Energy, Environment and Resources Sustainability for future are the keywords that better describe his field of expertise. His research and teaching activities are also in Petroleum Engineering and Underground Fluid Mechanics. Academic research covers various aspects of drilling and production, formation evaluation, HSSE of onshore and offshore operations, Environmental Monitoring, CCUS and Geothermal resources. He has several cooperations with Universities, Research institutes and National Agencies. He authored more than 160 papers and several books.