"Agnes: The development company that is shaping the Adriatic Sea energy transition"

ABSTRACT: "Agnes, founded and based in Ravenna, is a company focused on the development of offshore and nearshore sustainable power plants with a portfolio of around 4 GW of projects. The range of solutions include wind farms, floating solar plants, battery energy storage systems, and electrolyzers for the generation of green hydrogen.

Our projects are ideated and developed to re-shape entire coastal and marine communities towards a substantial decarbonization of their energy systems.

During the last 4 years of activities, we have worked on our projects from the concept phase up to the FEED, playing a solid role in the Italian offshore renewables emerging industry."
